At the meeting in West Philadelphia the leaders will select a central med ing place, where the various trades af-fected can express their views and plans on a common meeting ground.

Mr. Golden was asked what the attitude of the union men would be if strike-breakers were employed. He said a system of "peaceful picketing" would be adopted. A roll call of the men on strike will be held daily. One of the complaints the men have, according to Mr. Golden, is the plece work method in force.

"There is absolutely no indication of a strike as far as the Reading is con-cerned in and around Philadelphia," said E. K. Lewis, general passenger agent of the P. and R. "I don't be-lieve our lines will be affected. We don't anticipate any trouble and the trains will move on schedule."

Charles H. Ewing, vice president of the Reading Railway said: "The Reading Railway expects its men to stand soldily behind it at this time, and Mr. Ewing said further that the Reading shopmen had refused to vote on the strike issue.
